Maryland Man Is Burned To Death Friday

Charles Levine Carbaugh Sr., 59, burned to death Friday night when his home near Taneytown was destroyed by flames. Four other persons in the home escaped.

Taneytown fire chief W. F. Miller said the fire apparently was discovered by Mr. Carbaugh who had retired to the second floor of the two-story brick farm house for the night. He went downstairs to investigate the smoke the family smelled coming from that section of the six-room house.

When the father failed to return in due course his oldest son went downstairs and found his father had fallen in the living room and was surrounded by flames. Unable to reach his father, the son went upstairs, warned his mother and the two other Carbaugh children, then went over the roof to the ground to get a ladder. He then assisted the other members of his family to escape.

Firemen were summoned from Taneytown, Union Bridge, New Windsor and Pleasant Valley.

CONDITIONS SATISFACTORY

Both the eldest son, Charles Levine Carbaugh Jr., 30, and his mother, 57, were admitted to the Westminster Hospital suffering from smoke inhalation. They were described as in satisfactory condition this morning.

State Trooper R. W. Ellis said the elder Mr. Carbaugh apparently was overcome by smoke. The fire, he said, apparently started in the kitchen.

Firemen said the elder Mr. Carbaugh was burned about the feet and hands.

The body of Mr. Carbaugh was removed to a Baltimore morgue to determine the cause of death.

SEMINARY'S GRADUATION HELD FRIDAY

An overflow crowd was present Friday evening in the Church of the Abiding Presence for the graduation service of the Lutheran Seminary. The service began with vespers and concluded with the conferring of degrees by the president, Dr. Donald R. Heiges.

The sermon was delivered by Prof. Edmund A. Steinle, Brown professor of homiletics at Union Theological Seminary, New York City. Prof. Steinle spoke on the theme "Becoming Mature Men in Christ." His text was Ephesians 4:15, "Speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ."

Speaking to the graduates who are about to embark upon their calling in the church, Dr. Steinle raised the question of the problem of a secure ministry in an insecure and anxious world.

Maturing is needed to face the problems that will confront the men entering the ministry, he said.

LEARN TO LISTEN'

Dr. Steinle pointed out three marks of maturity "in an insecure and anxious world." His first point was that a mature man is sensitive to the souls around him and has a willingness to listen. He exhorted the graduates "to cultivate the grace of being willing to listen."

Secondly, he said, a mature man is willing to identify himself with those he serves. "This entails wrestling with life on its profound level," Dr. Steinle pointed out as he observed, "We sometimes attempt to escape the struggle in a perpetual coffeebreak" by becoming involved in meaningless activities that will avoid a meeting with basic realities. "A willingness to live on the far edge of your theology," said Dr. Steinle, "is necessary to interpret the truth in love."

Dr. Steinle's final point was that a mature man must exhibit the same amazing patience as Christ. "We must have the patience to let God be God," he said. He pointed out that love was patient and refused to manipulate anybody, even for their own good.

REPORT POPE IS IMPROVING

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII was reported still slowly regaining strength today as he rested in a nine-day novena spiritual retreat he started Friday.

No official announcement was made on the condition of the 81-year-old pontiff who suffered a severe relapse four days ago in his illness, a stomach disorder believed to be an ulcer or cancer.

Word circulated unofficially that he was resting better and was strengthened by the large blood transfusion he had been given after the relapse.

The pope was remaining in his Vatican apartment, where there were full facilities for his medical care. Sources said, however, that if he felt sufficiently recovered he still might spend the last few days of the Novena in the quiet of his newly-built apartment on the upper floor of the old St. John Tower in the Vatican gardens.

Courthouse Roof Fire Extinguished

The Weishaar-Howard Hummer "fire department" extinguished a blaze in the court house tower Friday afternoon about 4:30.

Several men standing in front of Gettysburg Hardware store at the corner of W. Middle and Baltimore St. happened to look up at the courthouse tower where painters had been burning off paint earlier, and saw smoke.

Glenn Weishaar, manager of Weishaar's store, knowing that the painters had completed their work for the day and had left the scene, shouted to his employees who were on the west end of the courthouse repairing spouting and the roof. They looked up, saw the smoke and ran across the roof toward the tower. Meanwhile, another spectator had run to the courthouse and alerted janitor Howard Hummer who reached the roof about the same time.

A hose which had been placed on the roof while the painters were burning the paint off the tower was used to extinguish the smoldering fire. Damage was slight.

UNIONIST IS SHOT TO DEATH IN HOBOKEN

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—Police pressed their investigation today into the slaying of a dissident member of Teamsters Local 560.

Walter Glockner, 27, a shop steward of the local, was shot Friday as he left his home.

Glockner, who was elected a shop steward last January on a ticket opposed to the leadership of Anthony (Tony Pro) Provenzano, the local's president, was en route to his job as a truck driver in North Bergen.

Police said a car apparently pulled up alongside Glockner in front of his home and the occupants asked him to get in. When he ignored them, police said, he was shot three times in the back.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Neighbors found him unconscious on the sidewalk. He died about nine hours later in a hospital. Three .38-caliber bullets were removed from his back.

Glockner had attended a meeting of Local 560 shop stewards Thursday night. A fellow union man said Glockner got in an argument over a proposed appointment of a union business agent and was ejected from the meeting.

Provenzano, 45, who has often proclaimed his close friendship with Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, is currently on trial in Newark federal court on charges of extorting $17,100 from the Dorn Transportation Co., where Glockner worked, to insure labor peace.

Glockner, a Marine Corps veteran, was married and the father of two children.

TEN YEARS AGO

More Than Month's Supply Of Rain Fell In First Fifteen Days: It's unlikely that anyone would need figures to be convinced, but rainfall for the first 15 days of May here has amounted to more than Gettysburg receives in an entire month of May — a normal one, that is.

This morning's thundershowers put the current rainfall total for May here well above the average which through the last half century is 3.92 inches. The total for May up to 8:30 a.m., when the daily observation was made at The Gettysburg Times weather station was 4.12 inches with every indication that more rain would fall later in the day. It was raining then, in fact.

Measurable amounts of rain have fallen on nine of the first 15 days this month.

Farm work is being delayed. Considerable plowing remains to be done and fields that have been plowed are too wet to be cultivated or planted. Fields already planted are badly in need of sunshines.

Orchard specialists have found scab and certain other fruit diseases and some of the insect pests are making unusual strides in county orchards because they find the wet, humid weather to their liking and because spray schedules have been interrupted to some extent.

Rev. Stuempfle Given Call To Local Church: The Rev Herman G. Stuempfle Jr., graduate of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary and now pastor of the Lutheran Church of Our Saviour in Baltimore, has been called to the pulpit of Christ Lutheran Church here. The local congregation has been without a pastor since the Rev. Wallace E. Fisher left last October 31 to accept a charge in Lancaster.

The Church Council was directed to issue the call in the name of the local church. The Rev. Mr. Stuempfle was informed after the meeting of the congregation's action and informally accepted. Terms of the call set July 1 as the date for the new pastor to begin his duties here. The decision to call new the pastor was unanimous.

The Rev. Mr. Stuempfle, who is unmarried, is a graduate of Susquehanna University. He was graduated from the seminary here in 1946 with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity and served as assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in York from 1947-1950. Since December, 1950, he has been pastor of the Lutheran Church of Our Saviour in Baltimore.

Robert C. Gage Is Fatally Hurt Riding Bike On Road Saturday:

Robert Claude Gage, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Gage, Aspers R. 1, was struck by an automobile and killed instantly, state police of the Gettysburg Substation said, at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon, while riding his bicycle on the Carlisle Rd. near the Aspers intersection, a short distance north of the H. Earl Piter garage.

The youngster suffered a fractured skull, compound fracture of the left leg and internal injuries, police said.

Besides his parents, he leaves one brother, Leon H. Gage Jr., Washington, D. C.; his paternal Gage, Deposit, N. Y., and his maternal grandfather, Claude A. Hutchinson, Hershey.

Sgt. James Jeffcoat Gets Korean Honor: Sgt. James R. Jeffcoat, 31, formerly of Gettysburg, recently received the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious action in Korea. The presentation was made at parade review ceremonies by Col. Otto J. Rhode, commander of the 37th Engineering Group. Jeffcoat serves with Company A, 5th Engineer Battalion.

Today's Talk

IMMENSITY

Whenever we get to feeling too all important, or too unimportant, we should walk out into the night and take a good look at the stars. What a world — what immensity! At my Nova Scotia island camp, in the summer, it early became a habit of mine to walk out into the open, and stroll about my small cabin. I would have a little talk with the stars, edge up to God, and throw off the petty worries or distraught thoughts of the day. Out there where everything was so immense, where the northern lights frequently flashed in such mysterious beauty, and where a peaceful quiet reverberated like a remembered dream, everything seemed fit. All seemed right with the world.

In a great crowd we think little of our own importance. We think of the importance of the whole.

Achievement, through worthy work and long application, often brings both fame and money. Either of the latter may place a man upon a pedestal for a brief time — but time is so immense that one man's money or fame is but an incident in the record of the years. Character alone survives and lives to insure through the ages.

No matter how big a ship you take to travel the ocean, when you get out far from all sight of land, the immensity of the sea and the smallness of the ship are all too evident.

Even our personalities are small affairs when compared to the immensity of ideas. The latter is what moves millions to thought and action, and keeps shaping and re-shaping the trend of the world.

In ourselves we are all unimportant. It's what we represent in our ideas and thoughts, the extent to which our influence is felt, that sets us apart as important. A mind can be immense and light the world!

MAKING A MAN

On it takes more to make a man Than time an growth of beard
For soul is reckoned in the plan
By which a man is reared.
And he must love the truth so well
As ne'er for gain a lie to tell.

Tis not in muscle that we find
The traits which men admire,
The gentle and the brave and kind
May very quickly tire,
And he is not a man, though strong
Who does a weaker brother wrong.

And he is not a man who sneers
At any woman's fame,
Or scatters round for careless ears
The story of her shame,
For manhood oft rich lustre reaps
From the brave silences it keeps.

Clean speech, clean hands and dealings fair,
Proclaim the man far more
Than any garb which he may wear
Or any glittering store,
We are so fashioned by God's plan
Things of the spirit mark the man.

Adams Workshop Speaker On Aged

HARRISBURG (AP) — Health and welfare resources play a key role in the planning of specialized housing for the aged, says state Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams.

Adams was one of several speakers Thursday at a "Homes for the Aging" workshop. The session winds up today.

Another speaker, Christopher S. Edley, regional counsel for the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency in Philadelphia, said special housing for the elderly is a matter of pressing need.

"It is heartening to know, however, that many organizations, many government agencies and many individuals are keenly interested in housing our elderly citizens," Edley said.

NEW LEADERS TO RACE ISSUE PLEDGE HELP

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Progressive leadership in this sprawling steel city's racial troubles has been pledged by a new government which also must grapple with serious economic problems.

Mayor Albert Boutwell and nine councilmen, confirmed Thursday as the legal government by the Alabama Supreme Court, were hailed by a Negro leader as symbols of new era.

HAILED BY NEGROES

"The Negro people look to the Boutwell administration for direct progress in the area of race relation," said the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth a key figure in a lengthy desegregation drive which landed about 2,400 Negroes in jail for demonstrations.

"Justice and progress have triumphed," said Shuttlesworth.

"Birmingham's image has already improved."

Boutwell and the council took over the government when the court ousted a three-commissioner system dominated by Police Commissioner Eugene Connor, a bitter segregationist who personally directed policemen in handling demonstrations.

MODERATE MAYOR

The new mayor, considered a moderate, said he would appraise the city's racial problem "and work toward its harmonious solution."

Almost simultaneous with the legal victory for the mayor-council, a Chamber of Commerce committee warned that the city's economy had been severely damaged by racial strife.

"Something must be done," said Caldwell Marks, chairman of an industry-hunting committee. He said prospective industries have refused to consider Birmingham because of the turmoil.

COLD WAR SPY FACES RETRIAL

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. Navy Yeoman Nelson C. Drummond will be retried June 3 on charges of stealing secret documents from his post at the Newport, R. I., naval station and selling them to Soviet agents.

The Baltimore-born Negro—the first of his race to be tried for his life as a cold war spy—remained under $100,000 bail after his first trial ended in a hung jury Thursday.

The only Negro on the jury, Edward L. Watkins, 35, said he was the lone holdout, with the other 11 jurors voting for conviction. He said race had nothing to do with it and that he would have voted guilty on the conspiracy count in the indictment, which carried a possible penalty of life imprisonment, if the others had voted acquittal on the espionage count, which carried a possible death sentence.

Federal Judge Edward Weintraub was obviously disappointed at the jury's failure to reach a verdict after 26 hours.

Drummond, 34, a stocky, mustached Navy veteran of 16 years, was accused of conspiring with Soviet agents and attempting to transmit national defense documents to them.

GIANTS BELT SANDY KOUFAX FOR 5 IN 1ST

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Last time Sandy Koufax didn't miss a man. This time he didn't miss a bat.

The National League leading San Francisco Giants got even with Koufax, who pitched a no-hitter against them 13 days before, by shelling the Los Angeles left-hander from the mound with a five-run first inning outburst en route to a 7-1 triumph over the Dodgers Friday night.

The first five Giants all scored. And, after retiring only one batter, Koufax took the rest of the night off. The Giants went on to an easy triumph behind Juan Marichal's four-hit pitching and increased their lead over the second-place Dodgers to two games.

The third-place St. Louis Cardinals, meanwhile, walloped the New York Mets 10-4, Philadelphia downed Cincinnati 5-1 behind Cal McLish's four-hitter, Pittsburgh belted Milwaukee 7-2 and Houston edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 12 innings.

2 CARDS HOMER

Winning pitcher Bob Gibson, now 2-3, and Stan Musial both hit homers in a 14-inning Cardinal attack that sent the Mets down to their fifth straight loss.

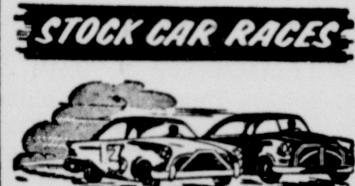

McLish, who won the Phillies' last game with a five-hitter before they went into a three-game skid, aided the attack with two singles and two walks. The only run McLish, 32, allowed was a pinch-hit homer by Jesse Gonder in the eighth. Johnny Callison and Tony Taylor each drove in two Philadelphia runs against Reds' starter Bob Purkey.

CLOBBER SPAHN

Shut out for five innings by Braves' starter Warren Spahn, the Pirates erupted for seven runs in the sixth to hand the veteran left-hander his third defeat in nine decisions. Rookie Willie Stargell capped the rally with a three-run pinch-hit homer. Bob Friend was the winner, scattering five hits, including Hank Aaron's 14th homer.

Howie Goss' single drove in Al Spangler with the deciding run in the 12th inning as the Colts won their fifth game in five meetings with the Cubs this season. Spangler had singled to open the inning, his fourth straight hit after his eighth in the last nine at-bats. Houston managed the victory despite six errors—three by Bob Aspromonte, who last year set a league record for third basemen with 57 consecutive errorless games.

MERCURY DIPS, FARMERS FIGHT HEAVY FROSTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was overcast weather again today as a disappointing month of May entered its final weekend with what has become the general rule—rain and cool temperatures.

A slow warming trend which had been replacing near-freezing temperatures was continuing—but the Weather Bureau put a damper on the immediate outlook by forecasting another invasion of arctic air from a new storm which is developing in the northern Plains.

WEST COAST FAIR

Fair weather was prevalent through the Pacific Coast states, over the southwestern deserts and along the North Atlantic seaboard. But elsewhere, the picture was cloudy. Showers and thunderstorms weaved a wide swath from Tennessee and Kentucky northwestward across the western portions of the Midwest and into the western mountain areas.

Temperatures ranged from the 40s in the Great Lakes region to 82 in Phoenix, Ariz. New England reported readings in the 40s, the northern half of the country had 50-degree readings and the 60s and 70s were prevalent in the South.

RAIN IN SOUTH

Rainfall peppered much of the southern and central areas Friday. Normally dry Reno, Nev., reported 1.25 inches. Nearly an inch fell in Cocoa Beach, Fla., and .7 inch was reported in Daytona Beach, Fla.

The nation's fruit and vegetable growers took defensive steps against a late spring freeze which threatened to wipe out their crops. The battle against frost took many forms. Smudge fires, wind machines, hovering helicopters and swishing planes were employed to circulate the frosty dew from crystallizing.

PHILADELPHIA REACHES PACT ON CITY WORK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Contractors and city representatives have reached agreement ending alleged discrimination on a city building project, paving the way for resumption of work on the $18 million, 21-story municipal services building.

Mayor James H. J. Tate stopped work on the building May 15 when about a dozen members of the Congress of Racial Equality staged an over-night sit-in demonstration in his office. They charged the unions and some contractors discriminated against hiring Negroes. The city's Human Relations Commission after an investigation agreed that was so.

An agreement ending the alleged discrimination was disclosed Friday night, after a four-hour meeting between representatives of the Philadelphia Building and Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO, Willard Electric Construction Co., Daniel J. Keating Co., a steaming firm, and W. M. Anderson Co., a plumbing concern, and city officials.

Under the terms the firms agree to hire "qualified non-white journeymen or apprentices as the work progresses in a fair proportion to the number required," Tate said.

The mayor said the agreement "represents a major advance in the field of human rights with respect to equal opportunity for employment without regard to race, creed or color."

Meanwhile there was no word on the effect the agreement would have on another demonstration against a city building project.

About 200 members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People picketed a site where two schools are under construction Friday.

Their leaders charged the contractors were not hiring Negroes except as laborers.

The leaders vowed to continue the demonstration until work on the schools is stopped.

MECHANICSBURG — There are no kingpins at Williams Grove Speedway this year.

Before a ladies' night crowd of 13,000, Dick Tobias, the popular chauffeur from Lebanon, Pa., became the fifth feature winner in a like number of events, in modified action, Friday night.

Walker Cup Finals Are Played Today

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Cold wind and thunderheads off the sea bore down on the Turnberry links today as the United States and Great Britain met in the finale of the 1963 Walker Cup championships.

The Americans, behind six matches to three after the first day's play, were facing defeat for the first time in a quarter century of this biennial match play.

Four morning foursomes and eight afternoon singles matches wind up the play. Britain has to win by five of the dozen to recover the cup they have won only once since the competition was started in 1922. That was in 1938 at St. Andrews.

TOP NEGROES GIVE VIEWS ON NORTH ISSUES

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy met Friday with several prominent Negroes, reportedly to discuss ways of combating racial discrimination in the North.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington confirmed that the meeting had been held, with novelist James Baldwin, singer Lena Horne and playwright Lorraine Hansberry among those taking part.

But the spokesman said he knew nothing about another meeting that Kennedy reportedly had with the heads of major hotel chains on the question of racial integration in hotels.

Kennedy's other conference on the civil rights question was attended by persons described by the Justice Department official as civil rights leaders.

The New York Times said the meeting, held at an undisclosed Manhattan location, was attended by a dozen Negroes and several white persons.

According to the newspaper, the group reportedly told Kennedy that an "explosive situation" had developed in race relations in the North, that it was, potentially at least, equal to the growing racial strife in the South.

Baldwin was said to have initiated the meeting. The Negro novelist has said that President Kennedy—the attorney general's brother—has not moved forcefully enough in the Southern civil rights crisis.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union's extended boycott of U.N. finances is a confrontation against the survival of the United Nations.

Francis P. Plimpton, U.S. delegate to the Budgetary Committee, charged Friday.

Platon D. Morozov, the Soviet delegate to the 111-nation committee, countered that Plimpton distorted the Soviet position and had no right "to speak for the United Nations as a whole."

The Russians told the committee Wednesday they would expand their refusal to pay for U.N. peacekeeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East to regular U.N. budget items they oppose.

PANMUNJOM, South Korea (AP) — The U.N. command said today it will renew demands for the return of two American helicopter pilots forced down in Communist North Korea May 17 when the mixed Military Armistice Commission meets here Monday.

A U.N. command spokesman said North Korea agreed to the meeting. In making the announcement he accused the Communists of "employing delaying tactics, double talking and hedging."

Cap. Ben W. Stutts, 30, of Florence, Ala., and Capt. Charlton W. Voltz, 26, of Frankfort, Mich., were checking true marks when their unarmed helicopter was forced down by the Communists 17 miles northwest of Seoul. The U.N. command said they made a navigational error.

North Korea refused to discuss the case at two earlier armistice meetings and refused to disclose the condition of the pilots. It called the flight "a deliberate act of aggression."

LONDON (AP) — A small painting by the Italian Renaissance master Tintoretto sold at auction at Christie's today for $132,000. The picture, "Christ at the Pool of Bethesda," was bought by the Agnew Gallery of London. It was submitted for sale by Dr. James Hasson of London.

LONDON (AP) — Flight Sgt. Maisie Wilson of the Women's Royal Air Force was advised today she is eight years overdue for retirement.

Maisie, a 63-year-old grandmother, joined up in 1941 and should have been retired at 55, but her age was not revealed because of a clerical error.

MOSCOW (AP) — Almost all Moscow newspapers were given over to Fidel Castro Friday.

"The Soviet Union stands forever with fraternal Cuba," said the headline across the top of the Communist party newspaper, Pravda.

The Times said the plane, described as a Soviet-built Badger-type jet, was spotted flying at 50,000 feet toward Ambala in the eastern Punjab region. The Indian air force has bases in the area.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Vincente Salano Lima says he has enough support to win easily Argentina's presidential election July 7.

Salano Lima, a conservative, was named last night as the candidate for the so-called National Front.

Although once an outspoken foe of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron and defeated in 1958 by Arturo Frondizi, later deposed, Salano Lima and his backers said he would win solid support from the Peron and Frondizi camps.

Prince Grace of Monaco says he has barred the Peronists, who claim support of 4 million voters, from nominating a candidate of their own.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to cooperate in mapping the earth's magnetic field with specially equipped artificial satellites.

Hugh L. Dryden, deputy director of the National Aeronautic and Space Agency, said Friday he and Soviet academician Anatoly A. Blagonravov had reached agreement on the joint venture.

Capital Costs Discussed On Community College Plan

HARRISBURG (AP) — More than 20 groups lined up in solid support Thursday of the Scranton administration's proposed community college program. But they urged that the state share in capital costs.

The capital costs issue was the chief objection during an all day hearing on the proposed program which would set up a whole chain of community colleges already introduced in the House and Senate.

"Failure to provide state funds for equipment and library services, places a heavy financial burden on school districts or municipalities," Alfred W. Beattie, school superintendent for Allegheny County, said.

URGE HALF BY STATE

Similar sentiment was echoed by a majority of the other groups, with the consensus being that the state should pay half of the capital costs for the program.

As written the measure assumes local facilities and those of cooperating colleges would be used.

The state Chamber of Commerce was one of the few groups to take exception to the majority. The chamber suggested "support from tuition charges and the local community." Later however it said it was not opposed to state support.

HEATED EXCHANGE

The hearing was sparked by a heated exchange between Rep. Walter H. Morley D-Philadelphia, and Dr. Althea K. Hottel, a member of the Philadelphia Commission on Higher Education, over proposed student tuition.

Morley complained that students attending community colleges would be forced to pay $350 a year under the Scranton plan, while tuition at four-year state colleges is only $250.

Dr. Hottel retorted that Morley apparently "didn't understand the bill."

"Yes, I do," exploded the state representative. "My daughter attended one (a community college)."

SHOULD BE REDUCED

At this point, Rep. Jeannette F. Reibman, D-Northampton, intervened, stating that four year colleges are only for "some students, whereas the community college is multi-purpose."

The state AFL-CIO also expressed the opinion that the estimated $350 figure should be reduced.

Rep. Edwin D. Eshleman, D-Lancaster, and Sen. Paul L. Wagner, R-Schuylkill, chairmen of the House and Senate Education Committees, presided over the hearing. The bill, put forward by the Scranton administration, is expected to prevail over 10 others on community colleges already introduced in the House and Senate.

A Lovelier You

By MARY SUE MILLER

BEAUTY ON THE GO. There's many a slip in packing a suitcase. Own up, how often have you gone off for a weekend or a long holiday, only to find that you have left some essential beauty or grooming aid behind? Unsettling, isn't it?

One solution is to make up and "file" a list of your needs and then refer to it when packing. Another method is to keep your necessities packed, ready to travel. That course saves both oversights and time, particularly if you are often on the go.

For the purpose, use a train or toiletries case. Stock it with a duplicate set of required cosmetics and groomers. Either fill small plastic containers from stores at hand or purchase sample sizes.

Brennan identified the two as John Donahue, 42, a veteran of 20 years on the force, and Thomas Convery, 27, a policeman for five years.

In both cases, to an extent, ideals are at war with realities.

The problems, which got some sharp attention here this week, are, in short:

1. The fact that the churches officially oppose racial discrimination, yet admittedly are involved in it.

2. The fact that they believe religion applies to all spheres of life, yet it often causes trouble if affirmed in public schools.

What are the solutions?

NAMES SOLUTIONS

Seeking a way through these high-voltage fields, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. has espoused some stiff remedies.

On the racial matter, it has undertaken to tighten its rules against inequities, and has empowered a mobile, action team to go to work "to close the gap between profession of intent and performance of duty."

"Besides producing the show, I'm up for an Emmy as producer of the Andy Williams program," he explained. That means that when my category comes up, I've got to rush from the control booth down to my seat in the audience and appear surprised if I should win.

"Incidentally, I don't know if I'm going to win—so you know the Emmies aren't fixed."

90-MINUTE SHOW

Unlike the expansive Oscarcast, the Emmy presentations are being held to 90 minutes. The tightness of the time convinced the Academy to present some of the more technical awards off-camera, something the Motion Picture Academy has never managed to do.

Even so, some 26 Emmies will have to be presented, which means that Finkel will have to run a taut ship.

"We won't have any entertainment portions per se," he said.

"The only thing in that vein will be a filmed salute to 1962 by Gary Moore."

"What I'm trying to do is point up the drama and suspense of the awards. We'll have more reaction shots, more concentration on the audience; for that purpose I'll have creeper-peepie cameras on the floor."

"I know I'll be criticized for another innovation, but I think it's right. I'm having a regular Monday's runway from the audience to the stage at both the Palladium here and the Americana Hotel in New York."

"That will give the winners a glamorous approach to get their awards. I've never liked those shots of winners approaching from the side of the house, with the 'exit' and men's room' signs in the background."

ROCKEFELLER WILL TAKE BRIDE ON TOUR

It treads bluntly through some of the thorniest tangles concerning relationships between church and state, including the school prayer and Bible reading questions now before the Supreme Court.

Its combustible nature was reflected in the assembly here.

The policy doubtlessly faces further appraisals, although the assembly voiced earnest hopes that all Christian forces would labor more unitedly to strengthen the moral fabric of the nation and its people.

The Presbyterian assembly set up an extraordinary $500,000-a-year purse, solely to finance special operations on the racial front—by a new national commission of Negro and white experts.

Their assignment: To dig out and clear away situations of racial discrimination, in the church and out, and to join with other church groups in doing so, with the aim of translating past pronouncements into performance.

ENDICOTT PAYS STOCK EARNING

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—The Endicott Johnson Corp., one of the nation's largest makers of footwear, will pay a quarterly dividend of $1 a share July 1 to preferred stockholders of record as of June 18.

The dividend will be the fourth in a row to be paid by the company, which is still working to shake off the effects of a financial crisis that began four years ago. It reached a climax in 1960 when the company lost $12,215,748.

Although it will pay a dividend July 1 on preferred shares, the company will remain $2-a-share in arrears to preferred stockholders. Meantime, E-J will have passed 11 common stock dividends.

The company has 72,380 shares of preferred cumulative stock outstanding. It must pay what it owes to these stockholders before it can again declare common stock dividends.

The July 1 dividend was announced Wednesday.

The proposed amendments call for the establishment of a super court of judges from the 50 states with power to override the U.S. Supreme Court, prohibit judicial intervention in legislative reapportionment matters and permit states to initiate amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

"Gov. Scranton has a perfect right to his opinion on whether he likes the proposed amendments or not," Helm said Thursday night.

"I respect his position and I hope he respects mine."

Helm's comments stemmed from a statement by Scranton earlier that he did not support or favor any of the proposed amendments being pushed by a group headed by Helm.

Farmers Advised To Cut Hay Early In Spite Of Shortness

THOMAS E. PIPER

Adams County Farm Agent

Dry weather this spring might cause short growth in perennial legumes and grasses. But for a high quality first crop and a better second cutting don't hold off first cutting, waiting for more growth.

As days get longer and temperatures increase, perennial plants such as alfalfa and timothy mature even though total growth is short. Along with maturity goes an increase in fiber and reduced feed value.

Early cut hay is leafier, higher in protein, vitamins and minerals, and lower in fiber than later cut hay. This adds up to forage high in milk-making potential and acceptability by cows.

The best time to cut hay is a compromise between yield and quality, together with the health needs of the plants. The first cutting of alfalfa, for example, is best made when the plants are from full bud to early bloom. Red clover and birdsfoot trefoil can be cut at slightly later stages of maturity. Perennial grasses like orchard grass and timothy should be cut just as the heads are emerging from the boot.

Delaying harvest after these stages of growth may result in higher yield per acre for first harvest. However, the forage is lower in feed value and a second crop may also be reduced.

LOW MOISTURE HAY SILAGE

This year, many Pennsylvania farmers are planning to ensile their first cutting hay crop as low-moisture hay crop silage. Forage wilted. Fifty to 60 per cent moisture by the time of ensiling would be low moisture. Hay crops wilted to this moisture can be ensiled successfully both in gas-tight and conventional silos. This is provided certain ensiling methods are followed.

Low moisture hay crop silages have several advantages. If properly made, such silage is high in feed value and eaten readily by livestock. High storage losses and objectionable odors common with high-moisture silage are eliminated. They provide flexibility at harvest time, and lend themselves well to "mechanized" feeding.

But to assure top quality silage, especially in conventional tower silos, farmers must follow silage making rules closely.

The final silage can be no better than the crop harvested. So cut forages early when feed quality is high. Use a hay conditioner and then will in the field to a moisture of about 50 to 55 per cent. This may require 12 to 24 hours or more depending on drying conditions.

In order to get a good pack, chop the forage as short as possible and keep cutter knives sharp. Then store in a tight silo, one that is completely free of cracks that might admit air.

Fill the silo as rapidly as possible and distribute forage evenly in the silo. Then pack ensiled forage thoroughly.

Finally, fill the top four feet of your silo with higher moisture, 70 per cent or more, forage. Pack this thoroughly and seal with a plastic cap or other seal.

Farmers who have followed these rules when making low-moisture hay crop silage have been pleased with the results. However, if directions are not followed with care, heavy nutrient losses can result.

We do not recommend placing this low-moisture forage in a trench or bunker silo.

For further details on either low-moisture or conventional wilted hay crop silage, call or stop in at the Agricultural Extension Office.

STRAINS, ANXIETY

The Associated Press 60-stock average has reached an historic high. It was 273.6 on May 17 after having been 240.9 a year earlier.

For the next few months the market wallowed with the badly burned smaller investors clinging to the sidelines.

The market faced many stresses and strains. International crises upset it. There was apprehension about the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation of the securities industry. The possibility of a recession caused anxiety.

LIFT IN OCTOBER

Winter killing and some heating has taken place in many fields and may cause a reduction in this year's yield. These conditions are causing many farmers to look for annual crops which can be grown this summer to supplement the regular hay crop.

Two plans are possible. One is to plant additional crops for ensilage and the second is a temporary hay crop. The first is better if silo space allows it. Corn silage is high yielding and high in quality. It can be harvested relatively easily compared with most temporary hay crops. Sorghum can also be grown for silage but produces a lower quality silage than corn.

If a farmer decides to plant a temporary hay crop, either soybeans, sudan grass, or a mixture of soybeans and sudan grass can be grown. These crops produce fair to good yields but are difficult to cure and bale as hay.

Soybeans should be drilled at 90 pounds of seed per acre. They should be fertilized with 300 pounds per acre of 0-20-20. It is important to broadcast the fertilizer and disk it in prior to seeding.

Sudan grass will need much more nitrogen. Eight hundred pounds of 10-10-10 or equivalent should be broadcast and disked in prior to drilling 30 pounds of seed per acre.

The soybean-sudan mixture should be sown at the rate of 90 pounds of soybeans and 25 pounds of sudan grass. Fertilize the same as for sudan grass alone.

Soybeans should be cut as soon as beans form in the pods. The sudan grass should be cut at an early heading stage or before. The sudan grasses have an advantage over the soybeans in one respect. They recover following cutting and can usually be cut two or three times. Soybeans are cut only once. However, tall growing sudan grass may be more difficult to cure for hay unless it is cut early.

CONTROL WEEDS

Many gardeners are controlling weeds simply by applying a mulch between the rows of vegetables. This is an easy way to control weeds in home gardens.

This method has been in limited use for many centuries but has never been popular until recently. A good mulch practically eliminates the need for hoeing, cultivation and irrigation.

Most any material can be used such as straw, old hay, grass clippings, partly decayed leaves, ground corn cobs, weathered sawdust and peanut hulls. Simply place one of these materials between the rows after crops are up, and deep enough to keep weeds down, which usually means applying one to four inches of material depending on fineness.

In addition to keeping weeds under control, the mulch helps conserve soil moisture, and prevents a crust from forming on the surface of the soil.

Chemicals for weed control have no place in the home garden, because most all vegetables will suffer injury from these materials. If you prefer to push cultivator and hoe, don't cultivate too deep, as this breaks tiny roots and may do more damage than good. Just "scratch" the surface enough to break the crust and cut off the tiny weeds.

MARKET HAS BOUNCED BACK FROM MAY, '62

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market has bounced back—and then some—from the crash of 1962.

BOLSTER HAY SUPPLIES

Many Adams County farmers are concerned about their prospects for hay crops for the coming year. After suffering from a severely reduced hay crop last year, caused by dry weather, the unusually cold winter has thinned many stands.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

New Mum Plants From Old Ones

By EDNA HALLIDAY

Chrysanthemums give our gardens lots of color in the fall. They can be grown in the vegetable garden and moved to the flower garden as earlier flowers die down, leaving vacant spaces.

Mums can be moved easily even when in full bloom. April is a good month to divide old clumps or to take cuttings from them. In fact, both may be done.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, even though your plants lived over last winter, the older they get, the smaller the blooms become and the old plants are more susceptible to disease. Therefore, divide the old plants, not into clumps, but into single plants. Strange but true, the best plants with the most flowers result from single stems.

As shown, cuttings can be taken as soon as the best stems are four to six inches long. Take the cuttings below a joint and remove the two lower leaves. Dip the cuttings in one of the hormone powders.

Start the cutting in vermiculite or in moist sand or a mixture of soil and sand. Set each cutting with its bottom leaf just above the soil surface. Cuttings planted too deeply are apt to rot. Plant each cutting firmly. Keep the cuttings moist and shaded from direct rays of the sun.

When new growth starts, transplant into small pots of good soil.

Castro's Russian Tour May Bring Grave Crisis In West Over Red Plans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Through his richly ballyhooed visit to the Soviet Union, Fidel Castro has apparently converted Cuba into a fully fledged Soviet satellite.

This is now he is going to Havana, loaded with Soviet medals, to launch aggressive Communist operations against other Latin-American countries.

From that point the market mounted an advance that was one of the sharpest and longest in history.

High quality blue chip stocks led the market parade. Oils, motors, utilities and rails were in the vanguard.

Most of the buying in the last quarter of 1962 and the first quarter of 1963 was done by professional traders institutions and the funds. The little fellows continued to be wary of the market, selling more stock than they were buying.

The assumption in high Washington quarters is that Khrushchev wants to preserve Castro's Cuba as a showplace of Communist conquest far from the shores of the Soviet Union. If this proves to be correct, it is expected that

Khrushchev will keep the impulsive and erratic Cuban prime minister under a tight leash indefinitely.

In the course of farewell ceremonies for Castro in Moscow

Thursday, Khrushchev renewed his previous pledges to come to Cuba's aid if it is attacked. He said that any future crisis over Cuba would be harder to solve than that of last October, when, under direct U.S. challenge, he agreed to remove his nuclear missiles and nuclear-capable bombers from the Caribbean island.

His words as to the gravity of a future crisis were reminiscent of warnings issued earlier this year by President Kennedy to the effect that any new aggressive move by the Soviet Union against the United States through Cuba would confront the world with the most dangerous crisis it has known.

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — All foreign newspapers and periodicals have been withheld from circulation in Turkey in the wake of Tuesday's attempted overthrow of the government.

Turkey's newspapers have been ordered to publish only authorized news and photos of the abortive coup.

Turkey's chief principal cities—Istanbul, Ankara and Izmir—were still under martial law.

M'NAMARA IS COMPLETING REVAMPING OF MILITARY

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's vast revamping of the military establishment—its administrative organization, its chain of command, its multibillion-dollar operation—is all but complete.

Reorganization of the Navy remains to be completed. Some final moving around of offices, furniture and people in other agencies to carry out consolidation plans will continue for some months more, although the broad changes have been made.

The revamping has been done without asking Congress for new legislation, with McNamara acting under provisions of the unification law and its revisions.

CRITICISM RESTRAINED

Criticism by Congress members generally has been restrained.

But within the military, there have been stated objections by some officers, sharp private disagreement by others. One of the high commanders is on the way out, with McNamara opposing reappointment of Adm. George W. Anderson to a second term as chief of naval operations. And Gen. Curtis E. LeMay was given only half of a usual two-year tenure for his reappointment as Air Force chief of staff.

A deep and pervading silence has settled among generals and admirals.

WON'T END DISPUTES

Will this end disputes within the Pentagon?

President Kennedy does not think so.

"I am sure there'll continue to be disputes," he says.

The people in the Pentagon are "strong-minded men," says Kennedy, but completely loyal to their country. He says, too, that "we have to have a secretary to make the final judgment."

Some officers worry that the thrust of McNamara's reorganization is toward eventual merger of the services into one single unit.

UNIFIED EFFORTS

No, say McNamara's aides. "We aren't unifying the services; we are unifying the effort."

They mention his "package" program under which each service has been brought under central, coordinated direction. Examples are the strategic roles of the Air Force and Navy and the tactical roles of the Army and Air Force.

Clean Clothes, Furniture Will Attract Fewer Moths

Clothes moths are always ready to attack and the best defense against them is cleaning. To protect your clothing and furniture from moth damage, use these tips.

MRS. TUNISON

gored skirt seams or other special garment features, try to match the design of color points perfectly. This will help produce a high grade garment.

Good care of metal or nylon zippers insures their long life and maximum service.

When a garment is not in use, close the zipper to preserve garment shape and to prevent sagging or stretching.

Soaps, synthetic detergents, or cleaning solvents have no effect on metal or nylon zippers, but strain has. It's essential to close zippers during laundering or dry-cleaning.

When wringing a garment, and especially before placing it between a roller or squeeze-type wringer, protect closed zipper within folds of the garment. The zipper should be straight and pull flat. Keep zipper closed and covered when pressing to protect surface of iron from scratches and to prevent damage to nylon tape and coils.

If, for some reason, a zipper placket must remain open when pressing, use a press cloth.

FARM CALENDAR

Control Flies — Sanitation is still the most important factor in an effective fly control program, according to Penn State extension entomologists.

Cow Summer Pasture — Sudangrass is a productive summer annual pasture crop. John Baylor, Penn State extension agronomist, says it can be planted between late May and late June. One acre supplies good grazing for three or four mature animals during July and August. Piper or greeleaf are recommended sudangrass varieties.

Need Rich Soil — If you're planning to plant vine crops, such as cucumbers, squash, pumpkins and muskmelons, you'll find they do best on a rich loam soil containing plenty of organic matter, explains James Dutt, vegetable extension specialist. Vine crops also need plenty of fertilizer and insect control. If irrigation is needed, do it in daytime.

Spruce Up! — June is dairy month and the time when everyone should lend a hand to strengthen the market for dairy products, reminds Joe S. Taylor, Penn State extension dairy specialist. He believes advertising begins at home, and urges every dairyman to keep his farmstead clean, neat and attractive.

Remove Old Flowers — Remove flower heads of lilacs, early flowering rhododendrons, peonies, and similar plants immediately after the bloom period, is the recommendation of Penn State extension floriculturists.

"A newspaper is an adviser who does not require to be sought, but who comes of his own accord and talks to you briefly every day of the common weal, without distracting you from your private affairs." De-Tocqueville.

BOYLE'S Grab Bag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most recognizable and least known things in our life today is the American flag.

We get an automatic lift of heart whenever we see that banner in the sky take each passing breeze in grandeur. Our inborn patriotism seizes us by the throat, particularly if a band is passing by with drums beating and bugles blowing.

But who can sit down and describe it?

Very few of us.

A FEW QUESTIONS

Let us consider a few questions about it.

ASK ABOUT NUMBER

If you point out that the stars are actually white against a blue background, he will begin to get mad.

Then, if you inquire how many stars there are in the flag, he'll begin to think you are making a fool of him. But his answer may be 48, 49 or 50.

If he happens to give the correct answer, which at the moment happens to be 50, you will hardly fluster him by asking him if he can draw the proper positions of the stars in the flag.

"Why, that's simple," he'll say.

NOT AS IMPORTANT

If you tell him he's wrong and that there are nine rows of stars in his flag, he'll regard you as a liar and after struggling with pencil against paper tell you it's mathematically impossible.

Then you show him that it isn't. The current American flag does have nine rows of stars. Five rows have six stars. That makes 30. Between them alternately are four rows of five stars. That makes 20. Add 30 and 20 and you have our 50 states.

KHRUSHCHEV TO VISIT CUBA; NEW THREAT

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev today accepted an invitation to visit Cuba and renewed his threats to unleash Soviet nuclear power to defend the Caribbean island against invasion.

Both pledges came in a joint communiqué at the end of the public phase of the nearly month-long red carpet reception for Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Western diplomats said the visit pulled the Soviet premier out of a political hole.

Castro and Khrushchev now plan a rest in the south.

The communiqué, issued by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Khrushchev accepted "with gratitude" Castro's invitation to visit "the first Socialist state in America." No date was mentioned.

TO DEFEND CUBA

Turning to the defense of Cuba, the communiqué added:

"In the course of talks between comrades N. S. Khrushchev and Fidel Castro it was confirmed by the Soviet side that if an attack was made on Cuba in violation of the commitments undertaken by the United States President not to invade Cuba, the Soviet Union will fulfill its international duty to the fraternal Cuban people and will render it the necessary aid for the defense of the freedom and independence of the Cuban republic with all the means at its disposal."

"The organizers of aggression should remember that an invasion of Cuba will place mankind before a devastating nuclear missile war."

A State Department spokesman in Washington challenged the communiqué's reference to a commitment by President Kennedy not to invade Cuba. He said the no-invasion pledge was offered "for something the Russians never delivered—that is, on-site inspection in Cuba" to verify the removal of Soviet "offensive weapons."

The communiqué's hard language and heavy stress on Soviet pledges to aid Cuba against any attack appeared designed to soothe the still-ruffled feelings of Castro at the withdrawal of Soviet missiles last fall.

Littlestown

FINAL POLIO SHOTS SUNDAY

LITTLESTOWN — The third and final Sabin oral polio vaccine clinic will be given Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. at the Rolling Acres Elementary School. All residents of Littlestown and surrounding community are urged to take advantage of the clinic and to bring the immunization certificate issued when Types I and II were administered. However, those who did not receive the other two doses of Sabin are requested to report for Type II Sunday.

There will be a joint meeting of Boy Scout Troop 84 and Explorer Post 84 Monday at 7 p.m. at the Community Center. They will make plans to host the Paoli Boy Scout Handicapped Troop on June 8 and 9.

The annual Memorial Day parade and service in Littlestown will be held Wednesday evening. The parade will form at the Maple Avenue School at 7 p.m. and move west on E. Myrtle St. to N. Queen, through the square, south on S. Queen to Cemetery St. and then on to Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

Beaven F. Hanlon and Edgar W. Wisotzkey will be marshals for the parade which will include service veterans and civic organizations, school bands, baton twirling units and school children. Veterans wishing to be in the parade are asked to notify the marshals.

The parade will stop at the veterans monument on S. Queen St. There will be a prayer said and wreaths will be placed by Mason and Dixon Memorial VFW Post and Ocker-Snyder Legion Post and their auxiliaries. The parade will then proceed to the cemetery for the service.

The memorial address will be delivered by the Rev. Fr. Francis P. Wagner, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Taneytown. John H. Riley will be master of ceremonies. Members of the Littlestown Ministerium will participate. There will be selection by the local high school band. Taps will be sounded followed by a volley. Ralph R. Ruggles will be commander of the firing squad and James Rang will be assistant.

Arrangements for the memorial observance are in charge of the Allied Veterans Council. Members of the Legion and VFW are requested to meet at the Legion home on Monday at 6 p.m., from where they will leave to place flags on the graves of veterans in local cemeteries.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

IMPACTED AREAS: Legislation to deny special federal aid to impacted schools districts with segregated schools has moved toward likely passage in the House.

But a cool southern reception and possible filibuster awaits it in the Senate.

The House Education Committee attached the antisegregation provision to a measure continuing for another year the impact district program.

Through it, about $350 million a year is granted to some 4,000 school districts crowded with the children of military personnel or federal government employees.

To qualify under the committee's provision, a segregated school district would have to file a plan for desegregation by June 30 and put it in operation not later than a year from then.

The provision still has another hurdle to clear in the House: the Rules Committee with five Southerners among its 13 members, under the chairmanship of Southern conservative Howard W. Smith, D-Va.

But the measure's backers believe that since impacted aid goes to 300 of the 435 congressional districts it will have enough support to get through — or around — the Rules Committee, one way or another.

DEFICIT: The Senate-House Economic Committee reports that the federal budget deficit for the year ending June 30 may be $1 billion less than had been estimated.

The committee made the report Friday, noting that its estimates were made independent of the Bureau of the Budget or other executive agencies.

The report estimated the deficit at about $7.8 billion, instead of the $8.8 billion President Kennedy forecast in January when he presented his new budget.

A recent business upsurge—and hence more tax income—was cited as the chief reason for the possibility of less red ink.

NEWS POLICIES: Rep. John E. Moss, chairman of a House subcommittee investigating government news policies, says Americans are getting as much information as is possible about fighting in South Viet Nam.

The California Democrat said Friday that secret testimony of Asst. Secretary of State Roger Hilsman left him "personally reassured" that the information is flowing as freely as it can "considering the role of the U.S. government as advisers to the government of South Viet Nam."

GOV. WALLACE PLOTS ACTION AGAINST U.S.

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, challenged by the U.S. government on his pledge to block integration at the University of Alabama, was planning his next move today in his sovereignty dispute with federal authorities.

The committee made the report Friday, noting that its estimates were made independent of the Bureau of the Budget or other executive agencies.

A recent business upsurge—and hence more tax income—was cited as the chief reason for the possibility of less red ink.

SUMMER SESSION

Scheduled to seek enrollment for the summer session starting June 10 are Vivian J. Malone, 20, of Mobile, and David M. McGlaughlin, 27, of Huntsville. Miss Malone will attempt to enter the main campus, McGlaughlin the Huntsville extension center.

A federal judge, ruling this week that racial unrest in the state could not be considered, refused to delay enrollment of the Negroes.

The federal government moved to curb Wallace four days after he declared, "I embody the sovereignty of this state" and pledged to bar personally the entrance of any Negro to the state university.

In the Justice Department proceedings against the governor, the federal government asserted its sovereignty and said a governor "has no authority by 'interposition' or otherwise to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who signed the complaint, said in Washington the action is aimed at testing Wallace's announced position of legal resistance and legal defiance.

NIGHT CLUB IS CLOSED AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lillian Reis, 33-year-old chorus-girl-turned-nightclub-owner, will be in court again Tuesday morning at a hearing on an injunction which has closed her nightclub again.

Miss Reis had just gotten used to the idea of operating her club, the Celebrity Room, again Thursday when the court ordered it padlocked.

The nightclub had been shut down April 18 after the city called it a "common nuisance." It was reopened Thursday after Common Pleas Court Judge Bernard J. Kelley dismissed the temporary injunction obtained on a legal technicality.

The reopening didn't last very long—just one night.

ADD 2 CHARGES

Friday, District Attorney James C. Crumlish Jr. ordered the club closed, adding two charges to those previously brought against the club—entertainers associating with patrons and selling alcoholic beverages to visibly intoxicated persons.

Crumlish said both violations were committed during Thursday night's reopening.

The hearing will be held before Judge Francis X. McClanahan, who signed the injunction obtained by Crumlish. This hearing is only to determine if a preliminary injunction will be issued.

Miss Reis contends there is nothing wrong with her club.

FOREIGN AID WILL COST U.S. $4 BILLION

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay has told Congress that the "rock bottom" for foreign aid spending next year may be $4 billion—half a billion below what President Kennedy requested.

But that deep a slash, he said, "could only come about, in our opinion, by cutting perhaps $300 million of the $900 million sought for Latin America under the Alliance for Progress."

Clay, chairman of a presidential advisory committee on foreign aid, cautioned that an appropriation of less than $4 billion "would create very real problems."

His committee recommends spending of $4.3 billion, he said.

Clay gave this assessment to the House Foreign

His mother has moved to nearby Los Angeles and Earl has set up his bachelor quarters in Hollywood Hills — in a 13-room house that's accompanied by a badminton court and a swimming pool. His face just lights up when he talks about "home." The living room is large with a Spanish-style beamed ceiling and a balcony. "How high is the room? Well, let's see; I had a 51 foot Christmas tree and there was still some room to spare . . ." However, he won't see much of it this season.

While "Wide Country" is set for reruns, Earl himself has committed himself to a tight schedule of summer theater bookings (three additional ones have been offered him and if some of them can either start early or run late)

He's also putting heart and soul into volunteer work (fund-raising films, radio tapes and just plain talking up the cause) for the Leukemia Society of America which has its headquarters in New York because "if any of us had it, we'd give everything for a cure and the society is currently sponsoring 12 research projects."

characterizes with notable relish as "wild."

"I'm not really a singer, though," he tossed in with unexpected emphasis. Not a trained singer perhaps but not a neophyte either I found by asking, "When did you start to sing?" Seems it was way back when he was a youngster. "Every year they'd choose one boy from the school

Earl Hollman: Goal Getter

Earl Hollman (right), star of "Wide Country," says that, like the fans who write letters, he has been gun to feel really like the protective older brother of Andrew Prine (left). In the role of Mitch Guthrie in NBC's modern western he's dogged about seeing that Andy gets to college "and has a better life."

"Cocktail?" the waitress asked Earl Hollman before the handsome actor settled down to answering some questions about his stage and recording career.

He shook his head, decided instead on a "Mitch Guthrie" named for the character he portrays on NBC-TV's modern Western, "Wide Country." (Thursdays, 7:30 p.m.) and reeled off the recipe. Then it was the waitress's turn to shake her head as she ought to be starring as a matinee idol in a drawing room comedy instead of a rough-hewn "champion rodeo bum."

Eventually the concoction arrived and Hollman, who's trying to outwit an ulcer said it tasted fine, just fine.

Wearing his beautifully tailored clothes with nonchalance he looked, in a city setting, as though like, too," he went on, "the kind of mail the show inspires. A lot of it compliments us on the genuine — but non-mawkish — devotion of the brothers with Mitch trying to see that Andy (played by Andrew Prine) gets to college and has a better life. One letter that touched me said, 'I wish my brother had treated me that way.'

"Funny thing," he smiled, "but by now it almost seems to me that Andy is my brother. We work so well together that we can improvise changes in a script, picking up and following each other's meaning, even during shooting."

Earl never had a brother, but he does have a real-life story through high school. How did it work out? Well, he became president of the senior class, won a letter in football, and played the lead in the school play. Also he was a straight "A" student and was awarded a scholastic scholarship to Louisiana State University. He passed up the latter, though, and did a turn in the U.S. Navy, then headed off again toward Hollywood and enrolled in the University of Southern California majoring in drama.

ORPHANED AT BIRTH
Orphaned at birth in Tennessee Swamp, Louisiana, he was adopted when he was a week old by Henry and Verna Holliman. He was so sick with jaundice there were grave doubts he'd live into a second week . . . but that persistence which has carried him so far must have been with him from the outset.

The father died when Earl was 13 and both he and his mother went to work waiting on tables. Then Earl heard of a better job

10TH HONORARY DEGREE

Pauline Frederick, United Nations correspondent for NBC, will receive her tenth honorary degree May 26 when she is awarded a Doctorate of Humane Letters from Russell Sage College, Troy, New York, during its 46th commencement exercises. She will also deliver the commencement address.

The other universities which have awarded her honorary degrees are: Mount Holyoke, Gettysburg College, American University, Lycoming College, St. Francis College, Ohio Northern University, Lindenwood College, Denison University and Beaver College. Miss Frederick herself is a graduate of American University. She is the only woman ever to be elected president of the U.N. Correspondents Association.

OH EDIE!

Edie Adams who's planning to spoof Zza Zza Gabor or her May 26 "Here's Edie" half hour on ABC is rumored to be insisting on being billed as Edith Adams for the straight dramatic role she's readying for the straw hat circuit. Feels people may not take her acting seriously otherwise.

SUPREME SQUELCH

Johnny Carson seems to have formulated a useful tranquilizer whenever guesting Zza Zza Gabor: lives things up too much. He just hollers loud, "Why didn't you book her sister Eva?"

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

THE REV. JOHN R. WARNER

In answer to queries pertaining to the Rev. Dr. William Paxton and the Rev. Dr. David D. Clarke — just about all available material concerning the two was given in this column. The following additional notes, however, were taken from the McConaughy pension records and the old files of the "Star and Sentinel."

Among the papers of the late David McConaughy, Esq., were a number of documents, collected by him in his professional capacity, in claims for pensions for Revolutionary soldiers or widows of the same. The following are copies of the material presented by Jane (Dunlop) Paxton, the widow of the Rev. Dr. William Paxton, Presbyterian minister and soldier of the American Revolution.

Sheet 1 — "Agreement with David McConaughy, Esq., dated June 19th, 1851, made by Jane D. Paxton, widow of the Rev. Dr. William Paxton who served in the Pennsylvania Line or Militia during the War of the Revolution. Said soldier died April 16th, 1847."

Agreement witnessed by George Arnold.

APPEARS IN COURT

Sheet 2 — "On this — day of June, A.D., 1851 — personally appeared before the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas Adams County, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Jane D. Paxton, a resident of the said County, aged 76 years, and made the following Declaration — That her husband, the late Rev. Dr. William Paxton of Fairfield, in said County, now deceased, was an Adjutant in the Pennsylvania Militia in the War of the Revolution. He entered the service in the year 1776, near Strausburg, Lancaster County, where he then lived, in the spring or summer — and returned home in the winter — he was in service in the neighborhood of Philadelphia and Trenton and continued in service for six months or more — was in the service at the time of the Battle of Trenton. Have heard him speak of personal incidents in the War. He served under General Washington and I quite often heard him speak of him.

"Further declares that she, the said Jane D. Paxton, was married to the said William Paxton on the 13th day of February, A.D., 179 — , at the house of her father, James Dunlop, near Shippensburg, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, by the Rev. John Black, a Presbyterian clergyman of this County, where her husband then resided, having charge of Lower Marsh Creek and Tom's Creek congregations in this County. That she had a record of the marriage but it, with all the papers of her said husband, were destroyed by the burning of her dwelling house in the year 1848. She lived with her said husband until the time of his death. He died at his residence in Fairfield, April 16, 1847. She is now a widow and never before made application for a pension."

WIDOW'S PENSION

Jane (Dunlop) Paxton was granted a widow's pension on the Revolutionary services of her husband. The McConaughy papers contain no further data.

LITERARY TREND

New Interest Precedes CW Centennial; Histories Of Strife Here To Stay

THE LITERARY PHASE of the history departments and professional historians, through the first half of this century.

There will be continuing local visitations, celebrations, re-enactments, orations and forensic observances of significant events up to and including the anniversary of Appomattox and the subsequent Confederate Army surrenders through the centennial months of April and May, 1965.

But most of the reprints of significant prior writings and publications of new historical re-evaluations of "The Irresistible Conflict" that these Centennial Years were expected to bring forth are already on the market.

A Chicago book dealer says the demand is still strong for Civil War titles now in print and thinks it will continue for some time. Customers are keeping their volumes. According to a large second-hand bookstore, few recently bought, used books on the Civil War are coming in for resale.

TWO QUESTIONS now arise. Will the centennial interest be projected into the Reconstruction Period? In Alabama and elsewhere, some of that same unpleasant, hundred-years-ago political drama appears to be in line for re-enactment without benefit of centennial planning committees. That there will be a number of historical re-examinations of that tragic era is a pretty safe bet.

Second question: Has the revival of interest in the Civil War created a lasting interest in military and diplomatic history? Briefly, the answer is yes. Actually, a lively interest in those fields was approaching full bloom in the 10 years before 1961.

It came as a result of World War II. But the interest was long overdue. No fields of history were so thoroughly neglected, particularly by college and university

SOMEONE graciously sent me, without explanatory note, a copy of the fourth book in the series, "The Battle of Huertgen Forest," by Charles B. MacDonald, a wounded veteran from the Battle of the Bulge, to which the Huertgen Forest struggle was a dreary prelude.

I commanded an artillery group through both the Battles of Huertgen Forest and the Bulge; that I would enjoy it. I did in a shoddy meaning of the word enjoyment.

The battle was fought by America's V Corps, VII Corps and the late arriving XIX Corps. They were commanded respectively by Major Generals Leonard T. Gerow, J. Lawton Collins, and Ray S. McLain, the last named a banker and national guardsman from Oklahoma. They were under General Courtney H. Hodges, commanding U.S. First Army.

First and last, two armored and nine infantry divisions and scores of non-divisional troops units were involved. They were the 3rd and 5th Armored divisions; the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 8th, 9th, 28th, 78th, 83rd and 104th Infantry divisions. For any former G.I. in any of the above units or commands between 1 September and 16 December, 1944, the book is a must.

Others will read it with far more objective enjoyment but with hardly the same subjective feeling and understanding.

All will know more about the whys and wherefores of the battle than they ever knew before. For the first time they will know they were opposed by no less than 11 German Divisions including three Panthers and one paratrooper division. These enemy divisions enjoyed the advantage of a wide defensive zone of camouflaged concrete bunkers that were checker-boarded for miles through a gloomy forest filled with mines — the Siegfried Line.

The book explodes the myth inspired by Generals Montgomery and Patton that nothing but a mishandled gasoline supply kept the Allies from ending the War in 1944; an idea I have never accepted.

Had we understood these unpleasant historical truths better, we might well have made a success of a planned neutralism and thereby avoided America's stumbling into all-out participation in both. There is a practical need for a continuing interest.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY

obviously thinks America's interest in arms, battles and diplomacy has come to stay. Under the guidance of Hanson Baldwin, distinguished military editor for the New York Times, Lippincott is launching a new series under the title of "Great Battles of History."

Each battle selected apparently makes a fast moving volume of about two hundred pages at a cost of $3.95 a book. The first three are "The Cowpens-Gulfard Courthouse Campaign" (American Revolution) by Burke Davis; "The First Battle of the Marine" (World War I) by Robert B. Asprey; and "Red Rising Sun: The Siege of Port Arthur" (Japanese-Russo War, 1904), by Reginald Hargreaves.

Second question: Has the revival of interest in the Civil War created a lasting interest in military and diplomatic history?

Briefly, the answer is yes. Actually, a lively interest in those fields was approaching full bloom in the 10 years before 1961.

It came as a result of World War II. But the interest was long overdue. No fields of history were so thoroughly neglected, particularly by college and university
